

DISCLAIMER

- 1.1. The information available through the Cargill Family Law website is provided by way of general information only and should not be construed as legal advice in relation to any issue or matter.
- 1.2. The general information found within the Cargill Family Law website does not represent a complete statement of the law in relation to each area of the law that is discussed.
- 1.3. The client / lawyer relationship is established with Cargill Family Law upon signing a Costs Disclosure and Legal Costs Agreement that has been offered to you by Cargill Family Law.
- 1.4. The general information found on the Cargill Family Law website must not substituted for individualised legal advice. We recommend that tailored legal advice be obtained before making any decisions or taking any legal action or inaction. Cargill Family Law will therefore disclaim any liability for any loss that purportedly arises from a decision made or action / inaction taken based on the general information contained on this website.
- 1.5. Liability limited by a scheme approved under Professional Standards Legislation.